

Recalcitrant infection following total knee arthroplasty: a report of two cases

ABSTRACT

Infection following total knee arthroplasty can be devastating. Even with established treatment protocols, eradication of the infection may not be feasible. We report 2 patients who required above-knee amputation to eradicate recalcitrant infection.

Keyword: Amputation; Arthroplasty; Replacement; Knee; Infection